A wild New Year's Eve at the Brisbane Showgrounds

More than 30,000 people are expected to see in the New Year at the Brisbane Showgrounds tomorrow, at dance, electronic and hip-hop music festival Wildlands.

The festival's line-up of 26 international and national artists will be headlined by Australia's very own Grammy-nominated DJ, FISHER, along with American rap star Ice Spice and English electronic music duo Chase & Status.

There is so much talent this year that Wildlands has added a fourth stage to its Brisbane festival, plus introduced extended hours past midnight.

Wildlands has been coming to the Brisbane Showgrounds since 2019 and the river city is the first stop on its national tour this year.

Brisbane Showgrounds General Manager of Venue Sales and Marketing Jago Coyle said hosting Wildlands on New Year's Eve was a great way for the venue to celebrate the end of a successful year.

"Almost 200 events are set to have been held at the Brisbane Showgrounds including dozens of new events," he said.

"Our chefs were kept busy throughout the year, with more than 130,000 plates of food served including 90,000 dishes featuring medal-winning produce from the Royal Queensland Awards.

"2025 is also shaping up to be a successful year for our events venue, with many forward bookings already in place."

Gates for Wildlands open at midday tomorrow, with the event finishing at 12.30am.

The Brisbane Showgrounds precinct is located 1.5km from Brisbane's CBD and is Queensland's largest indoor/outdoor events site. Visit www.brisbaneshowgrounds.com.au
